de Rustende Jager

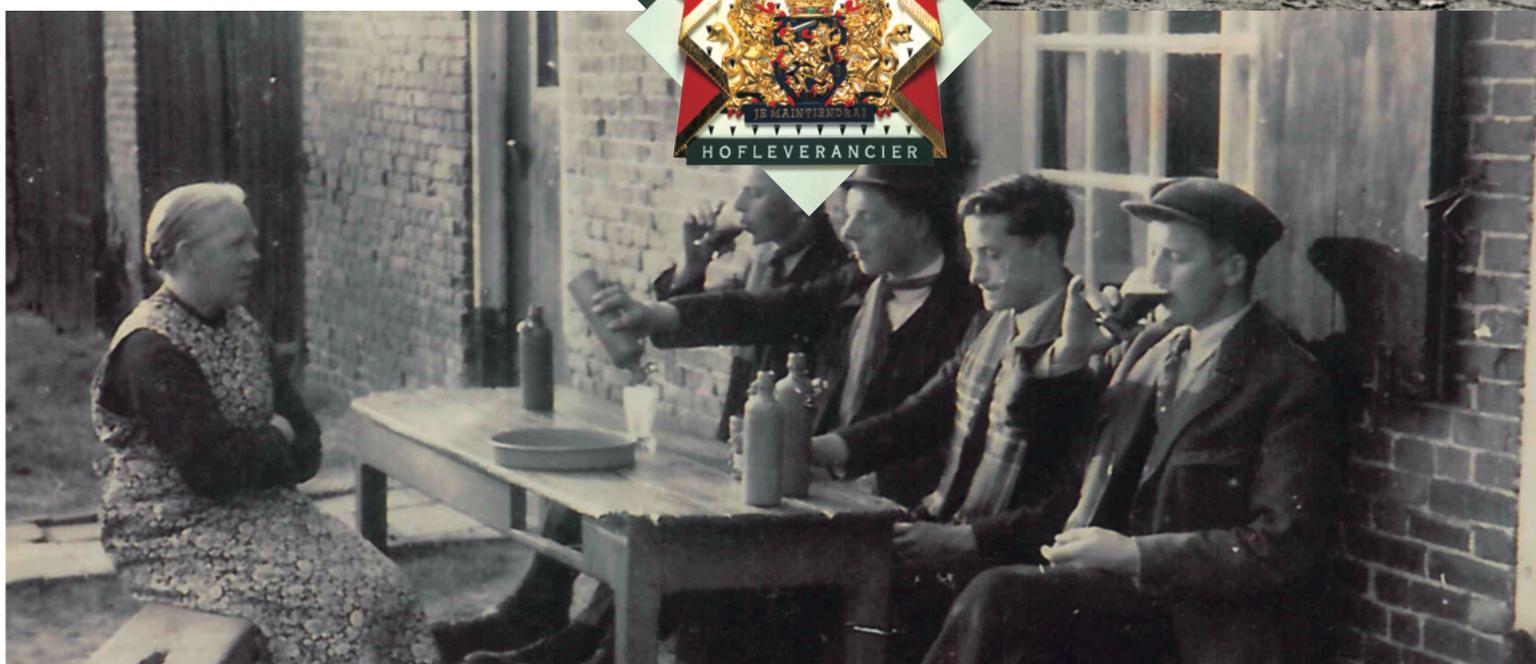

Welcome

For over 100 years:
Naturally versatile

Welcome to De Rustende Jager: a family-owned business that is a household name in Udenhout and its surroundings. And that's not surprising. The beautiful location on the edge of the Loonse en Drunense Duinen National Park makes us the ideal starting point for a relaxing journey through nature.

For over a hundred years, we have been offering our guests a place where they can feel at home. Whether you want to enjoy a nice lunch after a vigorous walk or have a cozy drink on the terrace, we are here for you.

And if you want to rent a bike, celebrate something special, or need a peaceful place to hold a meeting? That's possible at De Rustende Jager too. So, feel free to inquire about the possibilities.

The history we are proud of De Rustende Jager has a rich history that began over a hundred years ago. We would love to take you through the highlights of our story.

1920

Marie and Kees Klijn - de Bresser buy De Rustende Jager, a café on the edge of the dunes. It becomes a cozy place where hunters and passersby like to have a drink.

1936

Kees Klijn passes away, and De Rustende Jager is sold to the Association for the Preservation of Nature Reserves. Thanks to Marie's good negotiation, she can continue to live on the property until her death. Their son Jan Klijn becomes a forest ranger in the Loonse en Drunense Duinen.

1944

At the end of the war, De Rustende Jager is set on fire. The family temporarily lives in an emergency home while the café is rebuilt.

1945

Toos, the youngest daughter of Marie and Kees Klijn, along with her husband Piet van de Wiel, supports her mother in running the café.

1970

Marie Klijn passes away. Toos and Piet remain in charge of De Rustende Jager, but Toos wants to enjoy her retirement. When it becomes clear that none of their children want to take over the business, the continuation of the family business becomes uncertain.

1971

Nelly Klijn, Toos's niece, and her fiancé Jo Pijnenburg decide to take over De Rustende Jager.

1972

After extensive renovation, De Rustende Jager reopens with Nelly and Jo at the helm.

1989

After 55 years, the building of De Rustende Jager is once again owned by the family. Jo and Nelly are able to repurchase De Rustende Jager from the Association for the Preservation of Nature Reserves.

2021

Martijanne van Zon takes over from her godparents Nelly and Jo Klijn. And with that, a dream comes true for Martijanne.

Put on your walking shoes

Let yourself be amazed by the beauty of the Loonse en Drunense Duinen National Park. Here, vast drifting sand areas, forests, and heathlands alternate. There are several routes that start and end at De Rustende Jager. So, immerse yourself in nature and let the peace and quiet wash over you.

The red route is 3.5 kilometers long. Prefer something a bit more challenging? Then you can switch to the white route halfway along the red route. This makes a circuit of 7.5 km. Both routes are marked along the way with colored signs. Feel free to ask us for a route map. You can also download the routes from our website.

Can't get enough of the natural area? Then check out www.natuurmonumenten.nl. There you will find even more hiking and cycling routes through the area.

Enjoy cycling

The Loonse en Drunense Duinen National Park is also perfect for a sturdy bike ride. Whether you want to go mountain biking or prefer to explore the dunes on a (electric) city bike, it's all possible.

Mountain Bike Trails

There are two routes starting from De Rustende Jager. The green one is over 16 kilometers long and has few elevation changes, making it ideal for beginners. The black route requires more effort. It's 26 kilometers long with significant changes in elevation. However, there are options to bypass the toughest sections.

To mountain bike in the dunes, you need a permit. If you bring your own bike and don't have a permit, you can buy an annual permit from us.

Cycling Routes

Around the Loonse en Drunense Duinen National Park, there is a cycling route of 39 kilometers. This takes you along various beautiful places: from the drifting sand to the Vlijmens Ven. But of course, you can also choose a shorter route of 18 kilometers.

If you want to spend more time cycling, how about a trip from De Rustende Jager to the De Vrolijke Jager inn in Oirschot. We have various route maps, so feel free to ask us about them. You can also download route maps from our website.

Do you want to rent a bike or a mountain bike?

Renting a Bike

De Rustende Jager has a wide range of bikes available for rent. From tandems to (electric) mountain bikes and from (electric) city bikes to duo bikes. There's always a bike that suits you.

We always rent out mountain bikes including a helmet and permit. We're happy to explain the options to you.
